TRIBUTE TO BLAINE.

It is quite refreshing in times like these when partisan spirit runs high, to read gracious sentiments and a worthy tribute in a strong opposition paper concerning one of the most powerful political leaders in the republican party. The New York Sun, which has had many a combat with Mr. Blaine on great national questions, says that the great glory of Washington is that he refused to be president for a third term, lest the example of prolonged rule might not be by him to endanger the republic or demoralize the people. The Sun then adds:

The great glory of James G. Blaine is that he refuses to be the candidate of the republican party for the second time, so that the prospects of the party will not be caused that it represents may not be impaired through the revival of the old and worn antagonisms and passions and animosities which led to its defeat with Mr. Blaine as its candidate four years ago. The party is for him more earnestly than ever. As Wayne Macgregor expressed it the other day, out of every five republican voters in the country, four at least, desire to re-elect him. But he refuses, and he stands by his refusal like a consistent and high-minded man, who can put his own ambition and love of official greatness out of regard for his party and for the success of its ideas.

Again the Sun, speaking words of sober earnestness, and throwing aside its partisan spirit, does a great man an act of justice:

This is a memorable event, and it sets Mr. Blaine very high in the admiration and respect of the American people of whatever political denomination. We have had our controversies and our wars with Mr. Blaine in times past; but we cannot withhold the tribute of our esteem for an act of such manly and heroic steadfastness as he has now performed and repeated in the face of the most earnest persuasion and the greatest temptation that can be imagined.

There is a good deal of harmony in Mr. Blaine's spirit and action. There is not another man in this country that has so large a personal following as Mr. Blaine. His patriotism, his learning, his almost matchless victory, his warm nature, his unselfish devotion to his party, have drawn around him more devoted friends than any other public man in America since the days of Lincoln.

Mr. Cleveland has a splendid opportunity to show a little touch of glory in declining a great office like Washington and Blaine. He said a man ought not to take the office a second time. Will he act according to his promise and belief, or will he not count that promise, change his belief, and accept?

The Chicago Journal repeats the statement that it cost the democratic national committee $45,000 to keep the third party prohibitionists on a war-footing in New York State during the campaign of 1884. The democratic argued wisely that a large majority of the votes cast for the prohibition candidates would come from republicans, and, as New York was a doubtful state at best, it was good politics to strengthen the third party as much as possible. The paper then adds that "the prohibitionists made a lively and aggressive campaign on the money furnished, and was an important factor in the fight. They did their part toward making democratic success possible and establishing the grocery as a controlling element in New York State politics. It is not likely that republicans of temperance and prohibition proclivities will allow themselves to be sold and bamboozled in the same way a second time." In all the doubtful states the democratic party and the liquor men will be glad to see the third party in the field. In 1884 the prohibition party in Wisconsin received much encouragement from the democrats. They were in hopes that by putting the prohibitionists on the hook, and otherwise administering aid and comfort to them, the democrats would carry the state. The leaders of the prohibition party are as mercenary now as they were in 1884, but the Journal may be right in predicting that the sensible portion of the prohibition element will not permit themselves to be duped again by the St. John clique.

St. John is very busy just now. There has not been a time since his defeat by a weak democrat as governor of Kansas some years ago, that his head was so sore. He has taken the contract to carry Kansas and Oregon for the democrats. Mr. St. John will be well paid for this, the same as he was for the dirty work he did for the democracy in 1884.—Sunday Telegraph.

Yes, the greatest defeat ever suffered by any politically ambitious man, was by defeat of St. John when he ran for governor of Kansas the last time. He was beaten in that great republican state by Mr. Glick, the weakest of all democrats. St. John, as governor, earned the contempt of thousands of republicans of Kansas. He had a chance to earn for himself a good name among his neighbors and fellow citizens, but he got their distrust instead, and he met with overwhelming defeat. His defeat soured him, and it didn't take him long to turn against the republican party and become its bitter opponent. Had he been re-elected governor of Kansas, St. John would have been a republican. His defeat made him an assistant democrat, a demagogue of the lower order, so one can see his motive in hiring himself out to do the dirty work of an opposition party. He likes the work because it is dirty, but more especially perhaps, because there is money in it.

GROWING WEAKER.

Alarming Symptoms Developed in Sheridan's Case.

DR. PEPPER AGAIN SUMMONED.

The Constant Recurrence of the Heart Trouble Has Led to the Discharge of the General's Physician—The Worst Feared.

(Special to the Gazette.)

CHICAGO, June 4th, 2:30 p. m.—The latest bulletins report General Sheridan's condition as unchanged. The worst is feared.

SHERIDAN'S CASE A RELEASE. WASHINGTON, June 4.—At 9 o'clock last evening the following bulletin was issued, signed by Drs. O'Reilly, Matthews, Byrne and Morrow:

"General Sheridan passed a very satisfactory day. Since 3 o'clock this evening there have been some unfavorable changes in the pulse and respiration." The change alluded to in the above bulletin has filled the General's friends with alarm. It was not noticed until about 3 o'clock, when the General's breathing became more labored, his pulse increased in frequency and his temperature rose two degrees to 100. These changes once more moved the grave apprehensions which have been felt by the family and physicians at various times. Previous attacks of heart failure, one of the physicians said, had been preceded by similar changes in the General's condition, and stops were immediately taken to counteract any tendency toward a recurrence of the trouble. Oxygen was administered, but its effects were not quickly visible and the General responded slowly to its influence. At 5 o'clock there had been no recurrence of the trouble, and the physicians were hopeful that none would occur. The situation is again, however, one of anxiety and dread. The tendency of the trouble to recur is discouraging to the physicians and a constant source of alarm to the family, and the heart failure, which has been the cause of many of the attacks, is a considerable period may elapse between the attacks, yet their return is always to be dreaded. The General is very weak and no longer able to get up as strong as he was the last attack. Each attack heretofore has been worse than the preceding one, and it is feared that the General may finally become so weak as to be forced to succumb.

Dr. Pepper has been summoned. The General's case is further complicated by chronic disease of the liver. That organ has become reduced in size and harder and more dense than in its normal condition. The effect of this has been to seriously impair the usefulness of that organ. Nothing can be done, it is said, to cure this state of affairs, though the progress of the disease can be arrested and relief given by a low course of diet and rigid discipline. The President takes a great deal of interest in General Sheridan's case, and a copy of nearly every bulletin issued is sent to him.

CINCINNATI'S COMING SHOW.

Arrangements Being Rapidly Perfected for the Centennial of the Ohio Valley and Central States.

CINCINNATI, June 4.—Cincinnati's jubilee, which will be participated in by a dozen States and the general Government, bids fair to be one of the most important events of this country. The scope of the enterprise, its financial backing, the elaborate preparations made for it, and the wide-spread enthusiasm attending the celebration, give it a substantial character that will attract visitors from all parts of the United States. It will begin July 4 and close October 31. The millions of square feet of exhibiting space has already been secured by exhibitors from all the country, and the extent, variety and character of the display has never been surpassed.

Indiana Is No Longer Solid for Gray—Notes from the Convention City.

Special to the Gazette

St. Louis, June 4—2 p. m.—Since morning the political aspect has been considerably changed. It was intended at first that the Indiana delegation should support Gov. Gray for the vice presidential nomination to the last, whether the other delegations would or not. It was insisted that many other states would, after the first ballot join in the governor's support.

All these plans have been changed by the announcement that Indiana is no longer solid for Gray. Indications now point unmistakably to Thurman for second place. Enthusiasm for him is growing every hour.

They have specified five newspapers in the county which have been commanded to publish the proclamation under penalty of chastisement of the editors. One of the editors has complied with the request, but the Rockport papers have refused. Fresh outbreaks are therefore momentarily anticipated and a bloody encounter may follow.
